Subject: MSNBC Interview for Tomorrow morning

MSNBC is doing a segment on listing polar bears as Endangered Species. It begins at 9:30am (East Coast time).

On the program, they will have the World Wildlife Fund. Producers wanted to know if anyone from the State would be interested in joining in on the discussion since we oppose the listing. The alternative is to provide a statement (I did forward the Governor's letter to Secretary Kempthorne so they understand the rationale behind our thinking).

Are any of you interested? It would be great to be a part of it. We could certainly bring the AGIA into it, in that at a time when no human interaction is impacting the bears, we need to provide a safe, secure energy supply for the nation and listing the polar bears could disrupt that need. ☺

Need an answer soon, please....

Thanks,
meg

Governor:

I tried earlier this morning to reply from the Alaska Airlines jet via my Blackberry, but since the reply was to your yahoo account I received a form letter response that the account is not used any longer.

Anyway, yes Ken has been offered and has accepted the job. The assertions in the "taylor made" email are an unfortunate smear campaign. If at some point you would like detailed rebuttal, we can provide that. But, in summary, Ken is very highly regarded by wildlife management and land use management professionals in Alaska (e.g., Tom Irwin) and he will be a true asset to us in a wide variety of arenas including intensive management.

Various mainline hunting groups have called to assure me that they are not involved in Mr. Flory's efforts; several have even gone so far as to remind me that Mr. Flory is a convicted sex offender who at least one would banish from his association if he could. I have to say I am at a loss to understand what Mr. Flory hopes to accomplish by this and the newspaper attacks on you, me and Ken. If his intent is to assure more intensive management, it is particularly ironic, given that I hope this week to present to you a plan for ramped up efforts in wolf control for the remainder of this spring.

Please let me know if you need anything further in this regard.

Thanks, DL.

Denby's Game Guy - "Taylor-made" for a Wildlife Disaster

* Mr. Taylor's ultimate claim to fame was his intense personal satisfaction with his important role in moving Canadian wolves into Yellowstone National Park.

* At a conference in Homer with Deborah Williams' group (now known as the Alaska Conservation Voters), Mr. Taylor recounted his efforts to aid the restoration of wolves to Yellowstone National Park including the line, "I cried when the wolves were released at Yellowstone". Very progressive, Ken! Now every hunter in the whole country is crying over this unmitigated disaster.

* Mr. Taylor, an active liberal, was an enthusiastic supporter and campaigner for Democrat Fran Ulmer's unsuccessful run for governor.

* In Fairbanks, from about '85 to '91 (or so) he had dismal performance. His penchant for playing golf and chasing "the good life" sent him on the National and International meetings circuit to the point that the Fairbanks staff referred to him as "The Vacancy Factor".

* Mr. Taylor's tenure at Region III in Fairbanks followed a stint as one of the worst area biologist's in corporate memory. He was assigned in Dillingham (Mulchatna Caribou herd, etc.) where he distinguished himself by never having any data for the Board (or probably the Region) on population dynamics or changes. He virtually sat in the chair and accomplished nothing.

* As the management coordinator in cahoots with Chris Smith (ultra greenie and "anti" sympathizer), he made sure Bob Stevenson, one of arguably the best five wolf biologists in the world was taken out as the Department's wolf expert and re-assigned as an area biologist. The new wolf guy was a much better "yes" man.

* Taylor was "responsible" for decisions during the Department's GMU 20A wolf control efforts and could have easily avoided the confrontation with Gordon Haber, which put Gordie on the evening news after the Dept. muffed efficiently killing a wolf in a snare with the cameras rolling.

* In the 1990s, Taylor worked for some time as the Deputy Director of the Division of Wildlife Conservation under his CSU college buddy and longtime friend Wayne Reglin. Among his notable achievements, he can be credited (at least in part) with the Department's disastrous wolf sterilization program.

* He was later appointed Director of Habitat under Tony Knowles and was at the helm during the time they really got into trouble. There were eyewitness accounts of Habitat staffers throwing pizza parties to celebrate their victories in shutting down commercial/industrial endeavors. Murkowski subsequently moved Habitat to DNR to neutralize the Division's radical environmental gang's ability to stifle industry/development.

* Throughout his career, Taylor was uniformly known as a worthless supervisor by those he supervised, except for the habitat folks whom he let do anything the regional Habitat Supervisor wanted to do.

PLA,s and this was realy a union hire issue not an Alaskan hire issue.

Today is non stop until 1:00. Do you have any time to visit between 1:00 and 2:00 on the First Nations meeting? God bless your day! Tom

Tom,

Here's what you sent out last night. The arrangement for Tuesday is at 2 pm in the Governor's office. We are likely to be on teleconference.

As far as the media meetings go, I would like to go with you to all of them Monday I will have a vehicle, but on Tuesday it would be most convenient for my family if they can drop me off in town in the morning. Then I would need to get out to the airport around 4.

Thanks, Tom.

Governor and everyone:

I suggest that In the first meeting, after we talk about the new energy in Alaska, we stress that the Governor has established a fair, open process that could include the Canadian route or the LNG route. We need to let them know that they could positively or negativlely affect the economics of a Canadian route and consequently any benefit to them. Also it is likely the successful applicant would be doing all or part of the negotiations. We do have a good opportunity to set the foundation for their thinking and a positive relationship.

Appreciate any and all comments so we can think about this more before the meeting.
Thanks Tom

My take away from the story was that you are pushing for what is right for alaska regardless of what party or who the sponsor is. Lyda did get a cheap shot in saying that you have been gone for several weeks but your response was very good about having cell phone and regular phone access. An unbiased view from my Aunt watching my daughter was that you looked great, especially holding up the phone saying that you are very accessible. She was very convinced.

We will play nice for a while but I am convinced that we did the right thing sending a message that we are not afraid to play hardball, especially as we get into gasline hearings.

A little off of what we planned for the day but I think you did a great job.
